Mr. Wood said that the underwriters had only a pecuniary interest in the matter, looking only to the protection of property and wanted no more than that. He wanted to look to the protection of the sailor, and he suggested a recommittal of the bill. Mr. Conger, who reported the bill, defended it in priciples and details, and replied to the arguments of Mr. Wood against it. He exhibited a memorial of the New York chamber of commerce in layor of the bill.

Mr. Wood remarked that not onetenth of the New York Chamber of Commerce were ship owners, they were lawyers, bankers, traders, and railroad speculators. Mr. Conger resumed his remarks, and exibited resolutions and memorials in favor of the bill passed by the importers and grocers board of trade of New York, and by the American Seamen's Friend Society. On motion, the chairman, J. G. Lonsdale, was added to the above committee MEMORIAL.

We, the undersigned, understand that your honorable body has already passed, or is about to pass, an ordinance under which the insurance interests of the city are to be heavily burdened. We would respectfully represent that already the taxes collected from insurance companies in the State of Tennessee are much heavier in the State of Tennessee are much neavier than in any other State of the Union, and so burdensome to the companies in proportion to the business done by them, that many are even now on the point of withdrawing from the State entirely, as they have many of them, already done in stand it, is seven hundred and fifty dollars on each foreign insurance company, and two per cent, on the capital stock of home companies. We object to this more only because the present taxes are already too heavy, but also because this tax will in no wise be equitable, since the business of much. As well might you tax each merchant seven hundred and fifty dollars, without reference to the amount of capital employed or business done. The only equitable mode of taxing insurance companies, in our judgment, is to make it a percentage tax on the amount of premiums, as this mode equalizes the tax, and makes it fall alike on all; and we carand makes it fall alike on all; and we ear-nestly and most respectfully entreat your your honorable body to so fix it, being in fact the same as last year, and collectable in the same manner, only adopting such rules and regulations as you deem proper to enforce the collection of legal taxes from either foreign or home companies. If you will do us the favor to accede to
